

The broadcast flag will interfere with consumers' ability to use and to make copies of content for their personal use.

The FCC should not restrict consumer's rights to fair use.

The FCC should not work on the behalf of the communications industry.